L'Osservatore Romano
French Council of the Muslim Faith
Charlie Hebdo

Open letter

We must disagree with criticism on satirical journal Charlie Hebdo published in article "La fede manipolata" by the L'Osservatore Romano newspaper with reference to the opinion of Anouar Kbibech, president of French Council of the Muslim Faith.

We, believers in the supreme value of human, considering moral values of open-soul religion, don't see any insult or blasphemy on Charlie Hebdo cover that shows terrorist with rifle who pretends to be the God.

Sure, God isn't terrorist and good religion restrains violence. But also blind faith frequently used to excuse hate speech, crimes and tyranny. It's well known fact all around the world, particularly in Ukraine. Caricature of "holy terrorist" shows that linking terrorism with religion is ridiculous, therefore it is a good caricature.

We respect that sort of jokes about God because we believe in holiness of the sense of humor as human power, blessed by God.

So, God bless Charlie Hebdo!

Yours sincerely,
